

WHY SOLVAIRE?

Solvaire has been delivering eDiscovery and review services for more than two decades. During that time, the discovery team has refined discovery processes; established best practices as well as a hyper-efficient project management framework; assembled an 'A-Team' of document reviewers and temporary attorneys; while leveraging the latest technology tools and software to support its overall discovery service delivery.

Solvaire is laser focused on what clients value most— accuracy, document review speed, project transparency and budget certainty. Solvaire's service model is proven, and battle tested, independent of client size, project type, and discovery scope.

THE SOLVAIRE DIFFERENCE

People: Our in-house staffing capabilities produce experienced document reviewers who in turn ensure accurate and efficient identification of relevant and attorney-client privileged documents

In-House Document Processing: Our in-house Discovery Technology Team processes electronic documents and applies the latest technological solutions to save time and money, preventing clients from outsourcing that service to a third party

Process: Our proven and client-validated project management and quality control processes result in on budget, timely, and accurate discovery projects. All pieces of the discovery puzzle are assembled and internally managed by our Discovery Technology Team working in tandem with our project managers and document reviewers

Technology: We partner with industry leading, best-of-breed legal technology providers and solutions spanning document processing, document review, deduping, predictive coding, artificial intelligence, and machine learning. Our ability to integrate and merge third-party technologies into Solvaire's proven project management and technology process and pair them with internally developed technology tools is uniquely 'game changing' for our clients

Certainty: We deliver budget certainty and peace of mind leveraging Solvaire's turnkey pricing model

THEY SAID IT

“ Solvaire completed an incredibly large discovery project under an extraordinary deadline, something our BigLaw firm failed to deliver. The professionals at Solvaire effectively applied predictive coding and artificial technology to the project, assembled an experienced team, and brought the project home, all for a fee that was much less than BigLaw estimates.
